

Executive Office of Public Safety Newsletter, February 2006

The Executive Office of Public Safety (EOPS) is committed to keeping the people of Massachusetts informed about critical homeland security, emergency management, personal safety, and criminal justice issues. The EOPS newsletter is published monthly for the purpose of sharing current information on events, publications, and funding opportunities among public safety professionals.

EOPS Announcements

Senator Charles E. Shannon, Jr. Community Safety Initiative Funding Guidelines Available by February 15, 2006

The Executive Office of Public Safety is administering this state-funded $11 million gang prevention grant program for FY06. Funding guidelines will be posted on the EOPS website by February 15, 2006. Grant funds will support regional and multi-disciplinary approaches to combat gang violence through coordinated programs for prevention and intervention. These multi-disciplinary approaches may include, but are not limited to, law enforcement approaches such as anti-gang task forces and targeting of enforcement resources through the use of crime mapping; focused prosecution efforts; and programs aimed at successful reintegration for ex-offenders.

Excellence Awards

The Executive Office of Public Safety is inaugurating the Excellence in Public Safety Awards program to recognize public safety and criminal justice initiatives in the Commonwealth that demonstrate strong public benefit. Any municipal government agency, state government agency, or non-profit organization in Massachusetts is eligible to receive recognition through this program. No grant funds will be awarded. This is solely a recognition program.

EOPS is interested in recognizing initiatives from as many components as possible of the complex criminal justice enterprise. Criminal justice and public safety system elements that we seek to recognize include but are not limited to the following: Offender Management, Court-based Programs, Prosecution, Technology Applications for Improved Criminal Justice, Applications of Research and Data Analysis, Innovative Law Enforcement Approaches, Victim-Centered Programs and Approaches, Crime and Violence Prevention Programs, and Public Safety Programs Addressing Serious Violent Crime, Management Reforms, Preparedness, or Regionalism. Award application and instructions are at www.mass.gov/eops. Applications must be received no later than February 24, 2006. Awards are anticipated to be announced in the spring of 2006.

Public Safety Interventions

Application Deadline: February 15, 2006

"The National Institute of Justice (NIJ) is seeking proposals to conduct process and outcome evaluations to improve public safety interventions at the local level. Effective law enforcement and crime prevention programs are critical to ensuring the safety of communities throughout the country. With the limited resources of many police departments, local agencies, and other groups, it is especially important to determine the effectiveness of public safety interventions."

Training Grants to Stop Abuse and Sexual Assault Against Older Individuals or Individuals with Disabilities

Application Deadline: February 16, 2006

“In FY 2006, The Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) will fund 8 to 10 projects to focus on addressing elder abuse, neglect and exploitation in their communities. In FY 2007, OVW will expand the Program’s focus to address violence against individuals with disabilities. Projects funded through the Training Grants Program will provide training to law enforcement, prosecutors and the judiciary to create a multidisciplinary approach to addressing elder abuse within the criminal justice system in their communities.”

2007 National Crime Victims' Rights Week Resource Guide Discretionary Grant

Application Deadline: February 23, 2006

“The Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) will fund one grantee to conceptualize, develop, and produce a user-friendly Resource Guide for use by victim service providers, victim advocates, allied professionals, and the general public, during the 2007 National Crime Victims Rights Week and throughout the year. One cooperative agreement in the amount of $200,000 will be awarded to either a private, nonprofit organization, including faith- and community-based organizations, or a public agency, to produce the comprehensive kit for the victims' field. The kit will serve as a resource guide for the victims' field in their efforts to heighten the public's awareness of crime victim issues nationwide.”

Outcome Evaluations of Violence Prevention Programs

Application Deadline: February 24, 2006

“The National Institute of Justice is seeking proposals to conduct systematic and comprehensive evaluations of promising programs with the objective of expanding the list of effective interventions to prevent violence to and by youth. In selecting proposals for funding under this solicitation, priority will be given to evaluations of promising programs and strategies that represent comprehensive or integrated models of intervention, especially those that target very young children.”

Amber Alert Training and Technical Assistance Program

Application Deadline: February 28, 2006

“The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) seeks to continue the training, technical assistance, evaluation, and program management effort for the AMBER Alert Initiative. The winning applicant of this solicitation and resulting cooperative agreement will design, develop, implement, and sustain a coordinated and comprehensive national program of training and technical assistance under OJJDP guidance. Training agendas and materials should reflect the emerging needs of the field and be planned in conjunction with representatives of state and regional AMBER teams and representatives of other relevant disciplines.”

Internet Crimes Against Children Training and Technical Assistance Program

Application Deadline: February 28, 2006

“The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) seeks to continue the training, technical assistance, evaluation, and program management effort for the Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) Training and Technical Assistance Program. The ICAC program helps state and local law enforcement agencies develop an effective response to the online exploitation of children and the trafficking of child pornography. The program was created to focus a coordinated response upon this problem, bringing together the investigative and forensic resources of multiple agencies to better protect children. Under the resulting cooperative agreement, the winning applicant of this solicitation will establish a program to manage and deliver training and technical assistance on a national basis. This includes designing, developing, and implementing a coordinated and comprehensive training and technical assistance program and sustaining it under guidance from OJJDP.”

FY2006 Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant: Local Solicitation

Application Deadline: March 2, 2006

“This solicitation is only for applicants who are eligible to apply for and receive direct awards from the Department of Justice, Office of Justice Programs, Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA), and are listed as eligible applicants on the BJA website. The Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Program allows states, tribes, and local governments to support a broad range of activities to prevent and control crime based on their own local needs and conditions. JAG funds can be used for technical assistance, training, personnel, equipment, supplies, contractual support, and information systems for criminal justice in any one or more of the following purpose areas: law enforcement programs, prosecution and court programs, prevention and education programs, corrections and community corrections programs, drug treatment programs, planning, evaluation, and technology improvement programs. For JAG program purposes, a unit of local government is: a town; township; village; parish; city; county; or other general purpose political subdivision of a state; or a federally recognized Indian Tribe or Alaskan Native organization that performs law enforcement functions as determined by the Secretary of the Interior.”

Evaluation of Technologies

Application Deadline: March 7, 2006

“The National Institute of Justice (NIJ) seeks evaluations of technologies designed to increase the effectiveness of State and local law enforcement, corrections, and other criminal justice agencies. NIJ is interested in evaluations that measure how technologies improve criminal justice policy and practice. Outcome evaluations must include well-defined, measurable indicators of success. NIJ prefers proposals that focus on the impact of technologies on crime reduction. Additional outcome measures may include faster identification and apprehension of criminal suspects; reductions in criminal opportunities, technical probation violations and revocations, and crime and violence in school settings; increased problem-solving capabilities; and fewer injuries to officers, suspects, and bystanders.”

Research on the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children and Youth

Application Deadline: March 21, 2006

“The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) is requesting proposals to study the commercial sexual exploitation of children and youth in the United States. The commercial sexual exploitation of children (CSEC) describes a constellation of crimes of a sexual nature committed against youthful victims (younger than 18 years old) primarily or entirely for financial or other economic reasons. These crimes include, for example, trafficking for sexual purposes, prostitution, sex tourism, mail-order-bride trade and early marriage, pornography, stripping, and sexual performances. While increased attention to this issue in recent years has led juvenile justice officials to develop a number of prevention and intervention programs aimed at exploited youth in the United States and elsewhere, these strategies have not been evaluated to determine their effectiveness. Investigators may propose studies to address the research question(s) they feel are either most pressing or most likely to provide useful information to the practice and policy communities.”

Building Community Capacity to Reduce the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children and Youth

Application Deadline: March 21, 2006

“The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) is requesting proposals to expand community capacity to address the commercial sexual exploitation of children and youth (CSEC) in the United States through training and technical assistance for professionals who work with children and youth at risk of commercial sexual exploitation. The successful applicant will plan and deliver training and technical assistance to five-to-seven sites that the applicant will identify (and OJJDP will ratify) as high-need areas. The sites may be cities, metropolitan areas, single states, or multi-state regions. The training and technical assistance will focus on improving community capacity to recognize exploited youth and youth at risk for exploitation, intervene appropriately with and compassionately serve victims, and effectively investigate and prosecute cases against adults who exploit children and youth.”

Homicide Spike Ranks High for Cities Boston's Size

Boston Globe, January 9, 2006

According to a Boston Globe review, Boston's homicide count last year hit a 10-year high which was one of the biggest jumps for a city of its size. Although there was a dramatic increase in homicides, Boston's homicide rate falls in the middle of cities with estimated populations between 500,000 and 700,000.

Cops Say Beef up Bail to Close Revolving Door

Boston Herald, January 23, 2006

According to the Boston Herald, cases where offenders are locked up multiple times in a short period of time have prompted Mayor Menino to insist on changing the law to give judges more power to set tougher bail conditions and give felons the maximum sentence for their third offense. The issue of the justice system releasing repeat offenders back to the streets despite serious charges is not new but has recently become a focus.

Youth Group Aims to Flush Fear Out of Parks Across City
Boston Globe, January 31, 2006

The youth group Showdown Youth Development Organization recently expanded a program which creates violence-free zones around the city of Boston. The program aims to make parks peaceful settings for families and children, offering sports and mentoring to city youth. The idea is to fill parks with families and children and keep criminals away by letting people know their neighbors are watching the areas closely.
